Monet and the Impressionists

Imagine your students walking through the exhibition with renowned curator Terence Maloon as their personal guide...

Using the latest audio visual guiding technology supplied by Acoustiguide, visitors will be able to access valuable information at the Monet and the Impressionists exhibition at the touch of a button.

Scripted by Terence Maloon, Senior Curator of Special Exhibitions, and narrated by a number of well known identities including the George Shakleford, curator of this wonderful exhibition from the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston, the guide will provide both audio and visual information on the art and life of this masterful impressionist painter. It will guide you and your students through the exhibition and give an insightful commentary on individual works. This audio commentary will be combined with reference images and even a video of Monet at work.

There is no better way to gain understanding and insight into this amazing exhibition than by listening while you view.
