Itinerary

Sat 03 October 2015

Depart Australia

Suggested departure from Australia on Qantas / Dragonair flights to Beijing (via Hong Kong). Late evening arrival, greeting and transfer to your hotel.

Sun 04 Oct

Beijing

After a morning at leisure, join Claudia and fellow travellers for a welcome briefing and lunch.

In the afternoon, your exploration of Beijing begins with a visit to the National Museum of China and a late afternoon walk on Tiananmen Square. The largest comprehensive history museum in China, the National Museum of China's collection ranges from replicas of bones of Peking man to scientific instruments introduced to China by missionaries in the 18th and 19th centuries and decorative objects and artefacts such as bronzes, pottery, lacquer ware, jade, textiles and painting.

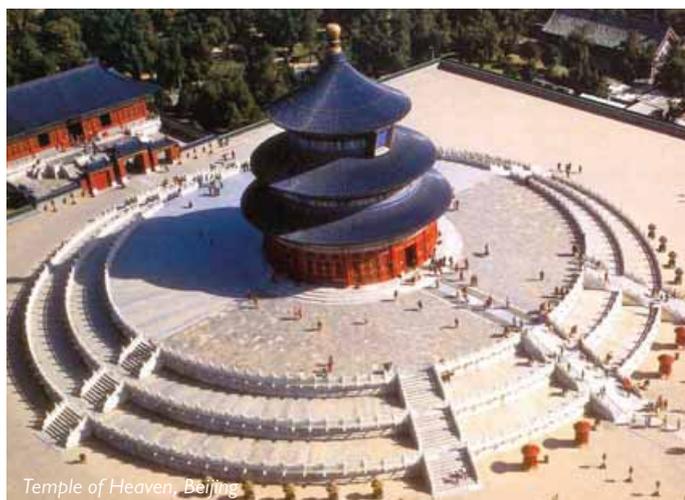

Named after the Tiananmen Gate (Gate of Heavenly Peace) located to its north, and covering over 100 acres, Tiananmen Square is the largest city square in the world. Dominated by the Monument to the People's Heroes and the Chairman Mao Zedong Memorial Hall on the square itself, and surrounded by the Forbidden City, the Gate of Heavenly Peace, the National Museum of China and the Great Hall of the People, Tiananmen Square has huge historical, cultural and political importance.

This evening, begin your exploration of local Beijing cuisine with dinner at a local restaurant. B L D

Mon 05 Oct

Beijing

Continue your exploration of Beijing with a morning visit to the Forbidden City. Originally built (by more than 200,000 men) in 1420 for the Emperor Yongle, the former Imperial Palace is an architectural masterpiece with a breathtaking symmetry of palatial pavilions, courtyards, gates, treasure halls and gardens.

Temple of Heaven, Beijing

After lunch at a local restaurant, visit the Red Gate Gallery. Founded by Australian Brian Wallace in 1991 Red Gate is Beijing's first private contemporary art gallery and is located in the historic Southeast Corner Tower at Dongbianmen, one of the few Ming dynasty towers to survive the destruction of Beijing's ancient city wall.

This evening, attend a performance (concert, dance or opera) at the National Centre for the Performing Arts (opened 2007). Designed by French architect Paul Andreu, this extraordinary building, referred to as 'The Egg' houses numerous performing venues including an opera theatre, concert hall, multi-purpose theatre and a studio. Local Chinese and visiting international companies perform here (performances announced 3–4 months in advance). B L

Tue 06 Oct

Beijing

Today you will explore local Beijing's performing arts, history, local life and fashion.

Begin with a visit to the traditional courtyard house of Beijing opera actor Mei Lanfang (1894–1961). Mei specialised in playing dàn (female roles), helped introduce and popularise the art form in the West and is said to have influenced Charlie Chaplin.

Continue to the hutong district surrounding the Drum Tower and Bell Tower. A narrow street or alley, formed by lines of traditional courtyard houses, hutongs are commonly associated with northern Chinese cities and are a much-loved but fast disappearing feature of Beijing. The Drum and Bell Towers of Beijing, situated at the northern end of the central axis of the Inner City, date back to the Ming Dynasty and offer panoramic views over central Beijing.

After lunch at a local restaurant, explore a selection of local fashion, craft and art workshops, markets and retail outlets.

This evening, enjoy a performance of Beijing Opera, a form of traditional Chinese theatre which combines music, vocal performance, mime, dance, and acrobatics. B L

Robots, Pearl Market, Beijing

Wed 07 Oct

Beijing

Following a talk, depart for a full day in the northeast of the city.

Begin with a visit to the Guanfu Museum, China's first private museum (founded 1996) of classical art and antique, displaying ceramics, furniture, architectural details and paintings dating back to the late Ming (1368–1644) and Qing (1644–1911) dynasties.

Continue to the Dashanzi 798 Art District, where you will spend the rest of the day. A sprawling neighbourhood of Communist-era factories and warehouses, in the 1990s '798' emerged as an alternative working place for contemporary artists and has since converted into a hip and trendy area of art galleries, boutiques, coffee shops, clubs and restaurants. B

Thu 08 Oct

Beijing

Morning visit to the Temple of Heaven. Built between 1406 and 1420 as the Hall of Prayer for Good Harvests, the Temple of Heaven covers 273 hectares and represents a Golden Age of Chinese architecture. Laid out according to the needs of sacred ceremony, it is believed to be the one place on earth with direct access to heaven, although only for Emperors who were regarded as celestial go-betweens.

After lunch, spend the afternoon at the Hongqiao Pearl Market. Despite the name, the vast Hongqiao Pearl Market offers much more than just pearls and jewellery, including electronics, watches, silk products, clothing and traditional Chinese art. An opportunity to test your bargaining skills! B L

Fri 09 Oct

Beijing – Shanghai

Transfer to Beijing airport for a late morning flight to Shanghai (2 hr). Started in the 11th century as a fishing village, Shanghai is now China's largest city and the new 'Gateway to the Orient'. B D

Sat 10 Oct

Shanghai

Today begins with a walk along the historic waterfront Bund, lined with grand European-style architecture from the 1920s and 1930s boom period. Finish with a tour of one of Shanghai's most famous examples of Art Deco, the Peace Hotel. Originally built 1926–1929 as the Cathay Hotel, the Peace Hotel has recently undergone complete restoration and is operated by Fairmont Hotels and Resorts of Canada.

After lunch at the Peace Hotel, cross the Huangpu River to Pudong – the 'new' Shanghai – for a visit to the Oriental Pearl TV Tower and the Shanghai History Museum. Enjoy spectacular views of Shanghai from the Observation Deck of the 468-metre high tower which has become a symbol of the new Shanghai. Hidden in the basement of the tower, the Shanghai Municipal History Museum tells an interesting tale about Shanghai during the colonial period between 1860 and 1949 with abundant vivid wax figures. B L

Sun 11 Oct

Shanghai

Following a talk, depart for a morning walking tour. The tour will begin at the origins of Art Deco in Shanghai at the former French Club – now part of the Okura Garden Hotel – followed by a walk through the streets of the former French Concession. Look at apartment houses, residences, cinemas, Art Deco lane neighbourhoods, the infamous Jai Alai building (previously thought to have been demolished) and visit Deke Erh's 'Old China Hand Style', the new reincarnation of the late, great Old China Hand Reading Room.

After lunch visit the Shanghai Propaganda Poster Art Centre which houses a private collection of posters which started as a hobby but has expanded into an exhibition of more than 5000 prints. The posters on display are all from the first 30 years of the People's Republic of China and range from pictures of fierce battles against the Communist Party's enemies to peaceful visions of life in a model socialist society. B L
